Storytelling

I translate stories into images, the language I use is not precisely defined nor is it meant to be unambiguously understood. Stories where I sense a hidden urgency interest me. I like to look for veiled concepts, I like humour, sarcasm, metaphors, and abstractions. Cultural and political narratives can also have a high absurdist content and call for interpretation. I like to render the images I make into lino- or woodprints, but often they remain in their final sketch fase and do not need to be completed.
