GREGORY DUBUS

Conveying emotions and reflection through a multitude of colourful triangular structures & compositions
My name is Gregory Dubus and I am a French artist living in the Netherlands. I have been making for more than 30 years works composed of a multitude of geometric abstract structures and compositions, using mainly or only the triangle shape. I am also currently developing an atypic concept called 'Evolutionsism' art. I am also collaborating with famous companies for making various items using the patterns that I create. For instance, the French company 'Malfroy' has produced 100% silk scarves, the French company 'Piganiol' has produced top quality umbrellas, and a geometric abstract vase was created by the Dutch company Royal Delft since its creation in 1653. I exhibit my works in various places in Europe and, in 2023, at the art biennale of Florence. I received the 3rd prize from an international jury of art professionals. I also have one of my works exhibited in the permanent collection of the 'Geometric and MADI art' museum in Dallas (USA).
