LAURA MODONI

Laura Modoni is an Italian artist based in The Hague, working across installation and performance. Her practice begins with the observation of urban spaces, construction sites, excavations, terrain not (yet) designed, or abandoned, as thresholds for a personal exchange with space, from which she draws a lens to read and speculate on reality. With a material-led process, she treats the space as a body, considering veins and bones the same infrastructure as buildings and cities. Her work is often site-specific, developing symbols through which hidden socio-political dynamics, designed to remain unseen, become visible.
